Nearly all members of the family have been sick for some time past, and on Monday the young baby died from measles and whooping cough. Mr. Reber is east and unable to provide for the family, and they have fallen a charge to the city, until he can support them.

THE Oberlin Herald tells of a mad dog making a raid up the Sappa on Tuesday of last week. A large number of dogs were bitten before the mad beast could be killed. The next thing was to kill as many as possible of the animals which had been bitten. After this was done, a large margin yet remained for speculation as to how many bitten animals had escaped unnoticed.

C. M. SHUMWAY, living south of Edmond, Norton county, the Norton Champion says, was found dead a week ago last Saturday, with marks upon his head and face, and one bullet bole in the left side of his head and entering at the ear. A coroner's jury pronounced it a case of suicide. He and a brother and their mother were having trouble over the ownership of some land, and it is suspected that the brother shot C. W.

> THURMAN AND THE FIGHTING PARS SON.

It may be truly said of Allen G. Thurman that he never, either by word or deed, from the beginning to the ending of the war, contributed one iota toward the putting down of rebellion. Indeed, all his sympathy, as well as that of his family, was bestowed on the other side. After the rebel prison was established at Camp Chase, his wife was in the habit of getting out her carriage at least once a week loading it down with nicknacks, and driving out to the camp to distribute them with her own hands to the rebel Delegates. prisoners. Indeed, it was her practice to ride into the yard of the prison, and there dispense her elegant "Virginia hospitality" to the rebel prisoners while sitting at ease in her carriage. The com mander of the Post, Rev. Colonel Gran ville Moody, ordered that madam should be stopped at the gate, and required to send her nicknacks in by the prison guard. Madam resented this as a person al insult, and stormed and took on at s terrible rate. But the order was impera tive and she had to submit. She return ed home, however, in a terrible rage and told her grief to her husband, who was guilty of the indiscretion of giving out publicly that he would properly resent the insult to his wife on the very first occasion that he should meet Colonel COLLYER TOWNSHIP,

AT WINONA.

Of the speaking at Winona on the Fourth, the Clipper says: "The Hon. W. S. Tilton, of Wa-Keeney, the speaker of the day, arrived on the train the evening previous, and was here chuck full of enthusiasm so prevalent among the soldier element. He did not tire the assembly with a long and uninteresting address, but his talk was short and to the point, and the attention he drew from the audience. which was in an uproar when he entered upon the rostrum, and which so quickly subsided, was evidence that the speaker had the people under his control Encourage ing remarks were also made by K. E. Willcockson, county attorney, Oakley, and H. F. Geissler, prominent banker and citizen that city.

-A gentleman and his wife stopped off in Ellis last Saturday morning under sculfar circumstances. They were on their way to California and had bought through tickets to that point. They stopped off in Hays Friday night and Saturday morning boarded No. 3, and when the conductor called for their tickwhen the conductor called for their tick-ets they could not be found. The gen-tlemen went back to Hays on a freight train and succeeded in finding them in the gutter in front of the poet office, where they had been blown along with other loose paper. The gentlems says he is sure that tickets carried loos in the pocket of a duster with the du thrown across one's arm and the pockets upside down are liable to get lost.-

-M. J. Keys, proprietor of the Cleve-land Hotel at Wa-Keeney, drove into our town from Scott City Monday evening, and spent the night here. Mr. Keys was on his way to Colorado Springs, taking his horse and buggy with him. He was accompanied by A. Sharp, of Scott City .-Leoli Transcript, 5

-Mr. Lunn, living four miles west of Castle Rock, while larieting a pony on Friday of last week, became entangled in the rope, the animal trampling upon him and injuring him about the chest and face. He was unable to get out to Sunday school last Sunday.
